Worthington Christian Schools
exists to be used by God to disciple students to learn in harmony with God's Word so they may know, love, and serve Jesus Christ.

I have had the privilege of working in the field of education for over 17 years. During this time, I have served as a teacher, athletic director, vice principal, and for the last six years, the Director of Student Services and Guidance at Worthington Christian High School in Worthington, Ohio. During my tenure as guidance counselor, I have had the joy of helping over 500 high school seniors with the college application process. Though it has been a struggle at times to keep track of all of the information on colleges and universities, scholarships, loans, and grants, I have enjoyed the journey. "What college is best for the student?" "Which university has the best programs?" "Which school produces the best pre-med applicants?" These are just some of the difficult questions I have faced in the past few years.

Things changed about two and a half years ago when representatives from College Assistance Plus came to my office to discuss how they could help me be a better guidance counselor and help my students with these difficult questions. I will be honest: at first, I didn't have time to deal with these businessmen. Within the first 15 minutes of their visit, however, I realized that their knowledge of the college application process far exceeded my own. I couldn't spend enough time with them to learn all the things I needed to be the best guidance counselor I could be!

The best way to understand how CAPlus works is to consider the illustration of buying a new house: Your friend sells real estate. Imagine if you had him with you step-by-step through the entire process to make sure you got the best deal. You could make sure that you had the best information and the right house for your individual needs. This is what CAPlus does. Truly "professional guidance counselors," they understand the college process from start to finish. I have personally sent several dozen families to CAPlus for their college planning, and they have had great success. I fully endorse their professionalism, their hard work, and their services. When you sign up for College Assistance Plus, you are not just getting a business deal. You are getting a relationship - one that will change your outlook on college and the application process.
